System of Negatives Devised by French Scientist Should Aid in Detecting Crimes.

Dr. Balthazard at the recent congress of legal medicine in Paris described his experiments on the identification of revolver bullets. He has formulated a system for identifying them very like that of Dr. Bertillon for identifying human beings.

He showed by greatly enlarged photographs that every gun barrel leaves marks on a bullet and that the marks are always the same for the same barrel, but never identical for two different barrels. He showed, too, that the hammer of a gun or revolver strikes the cartridge at a point which is never the exact center of the cartridge, but is always the same for the same weapon.

Dr. Balthazard has succeeded in making negatives of bullets nearly a foot wide. Every detail naturally appears very distinctly and it can be decided with absolute certainty whether a certain bullet was fired from a certain revolver.

OPPOSES THE DIVORCE RING

Boston Woman Lawyer Makes Some Sarcastic Comment on Morals of the Present Day.

Miss Amy Acton, a prominent lawyer of Boston, said recently, at a fashionable club luncheon, that the divorce ring which western women have inaugurated, is vulgar.

"It is vulgar," she said, "because it is an advertisement of the fact that the wearer is a divorced woman."

Slipping her black demi-tasse, Miss Acton added reflectively:

"I may be wrong, though, in condemning the divorce ring—it perhaps serves some very good purpose. The number of our divorces is really alarming. We seem to be approaching that state which prevailed in old Roman times when divorce was so frequent that on the tomb of an undivorced woman was inscribed:

"Here lies a good wife who had but one husband."

HORRIBLE.

"I had a horrible dream last night."

"Well, you had probably eaten something you should have left for others to eat."

"I don't know whether that was the cause of it or not. I can't remember that I ate anything which I ought not to have eaten. But I dreamed that I had made $250,000."

"You don't call that a horrible dream, do you? If I could have a dream of that kind I'd never want to wake up."

"But wait. I dreamed that I had made it out of a popular song which I had written."

COULDN'T LET THAT GO.

Loud voiced and much excited, a native of Butte, Mont., sent up a cry for a bellboy at a hotel in Chicago the other day. He explained that he had just lost a valuable article and was sure it had gone out with his laundry. He handed the responding bellboy a dollar to get the package back at once, if possible. The bellboy "beat it," as he said, to the laundry and found that the westerner's linen had just been dumped into a tub. The lad pawed around in the tub, found a crumpled handkerchief and drew forth the lost article. It was a glass eye.

A GREAT FEAT.

"Some people have marvelous memories."

"For instance?"

"There is a book reviewer in this town who has been known to remember the names of the principal characters in a 'best seller' for as long as two weeks."

IMPRACTICAL IDEA.

"I think each delegate should vote at the outset for the man he thinks would make the best nominee."

"My dear sir," replied Senator Sorghum, "with every delegate voting for himself, we should never get anywhere."

SENSITIVE MAN.

"You know," he was saying, "I couldn't see a woman stand up while I was sitting."

"So you gave her your seat?"

"No; I closed my eyes and pretended to be asleep."—Judge's Library.

Garden City, Kan.—In a letter from Mrs. James Hamner, of this city, she says: "I firmly believe that I would not be alive today if it were not for Cardui. I had been a sufferer from womanly troubles all my life, until I found the great remedy. I feel that I can't praise it too highly." Are you a woman suffering from some of the troubles to which a woman is peculiarly liable? If so, why not try Cardui, the woman's tonic? You can rely on Cardui. It is purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, and acts gently but surely, without bad after-effects. 'Twill help you. Ask your druggist.

Carpenter Unwillingly Shot the Chute From Twenty-sixth Floor of New York Hotel.

Charles Tohler of No. 301 East Ninety-first street, New York, broke the world's record for shooting the chute, when he glided down a rubbish chute from the twenty-sixth floor of the Hotel McAlpine into a waiting dump at the sidewalk end of the chute.

Tohler is a carpenter, and his boss sent him to the roof to do some repair work. He missed his footing and fell just as a load of rubbish was shot into the chute from a hand-car on the roof. The loader on the wagon saw a man's head and arms sticking out of the load of mortar, waste paper and fragments of bricks that had just filled the wagon to overflowing. He hurriedly helped the driver of the wagon dig the man out.

When taken to the New York hospital in an ambulance it was learned that outside of a few cuts and bruises, Tohler was none the worse for his glide.

NOT LEARNING ANYTHING NEW

Arnold Daly Had Had Vast Knowledge of Information Being Given Him.

Arnold Daly, the brilliant young actor to whom G. B. Shaw is indebted for much of his American popularity, was spending the week-end at Atlantic City.

At the palatial hotel where he was stopping a copper magnate with his family occupied the royal suite.

One evening, in the palm garden, after dinner, a charming young actress lighted a cigarette, and, arranging the folds of her panner skirt, sat down beside Mr. Daly.

"With so much money," she said, "the Metals make everybody look small. But," she added mysteriously, "I just heard something that will surprise you. They say the Metals have a skeleton in the family."

"That doesn't surprise me at all," the young actor replied. "I saw her swimming this morning."

CAREFUL PAPA.

A young lawyer whose wedding a few years ago was quite a social event is now the proud father of a baby girl. He is extremely solicitous regarding her welfare and has already laid down a set of laws, applicable to all his friends, and declares they must be obeyed.

Not long ago he took a number of his friends out to see the young lady and at the door of the room he halted. Turning to the group, he exclaimed:

"Now, for goodness' sake don't any of you boys swear. This girl will be learning to talk in a few months and I don't want to hear her cussing around the first words she says."

BRIDGET IS NONPLUSSED.

Mrs. Jenkins had retired to her room to try to sleep off a headache. She had a particularly devoted maid, Bridget. Bridget now annoyed Mrs. Jenkins greatly by tiptoeing to her door every little while and peeping in at her. Finally Mrs. Jenkins called to Bridget and asked her not to do it, as it was disturbing her, to which Bridget replied:

"Sure, Mrs. Jenkins, what am I to do? When yez makes a noise I thinks yez wants me, an' when yez is quiet I gits to thinkin' maybe yez is dead."

DEPARTMENT STORE EPISODE.

"Mr. Wombat, I have been with you a long time, but by eyesight is failing now. I have been in several departments of the store, laces, silks and lost goods through the shoplifters. I guess I'd better resign."

"Not at all, my boy," said the head of the department store. "You have been with me for years and you shall remain as long as you like. I'll put you in the grindstone department. I don't think you'll lose many goods there."

THE REGULAR THING.

"What does Tanks want to do with that thirst of his?"

"I rather think he wants to be treated for it."

VERY LITTLE.

Bill—What he needs is a little backbone.

Jim—Well, he's got about as little as anybody I know.
